General English

I put the phrases into the correct section of the table:

make	have	be	take	put	get

the centre of attention	a stomach for heights	friends eye contact	something in the neck	on the tip of one's tongue something in common	a difference	one's foot in photos	an effect on something	a chance a claim to fame	someone redundant	your foot down a roller coaster ride	some work experience	a hike expelled	an audition	somebody up to
into trouble	something wrong	something

Notes:
 Certain verbs in English make many collocations and have a wide range of meanings.

II Complete the table with words from the same word family

NOUN	VERB	ADJECTIVE	OPPOSITE ADJECTIVE	ADVERB respect
		patient
	to recognise
			unable
				silently
		competitive
care
		wide
mood
		dead
	to awe
				possibly employed

Word derivation is an important and useful skill to all English learners. There are typical suffixes and prefixes used to create certain parts of speech.

III Use the correct form of the word given to complete the sentences:
